Makan & Reflect

After a movie on the weekend, everyone was hungry and tired. Our whole family went to the foodcourt in the mall and after much thought due to so many delicious choices, zeroed on this yummy hot and sour soup. The hotness of the soup reminded me of Indian street food.

In India, east Asian food is very popular as street food with a local twist to delight the local people.

The street vendors keep the main ingredients as same but add few local spices.

Get creative!
